

TRACKING STATIONS

Like faulty TVs, the Down entries in this variety cryptic puzzle are all having problems with their vertical tracking. The top portion of each Down answer appears at the bottom of its slot, while the corresponding bottom portion appears at the top. The two portions are interrupted in the middle by a one-letter divider. In each case the resulting entry is a new word; e.g. the Down answer ELAN might lead to the grid entry AN(G)EL or LAN(C)E. Down entries are ordered by length but otherwise randomly, so use the normal Across entries to get started. As you fill in each Down entry, circle its divider; when the grid is filled, the circled letters reading across one of the rows will spell an appropriate show to watch on a faulty TV.
